
PRESIDENT STILLS CZAR ARGUMENTS

War Production Heads Told To Get Together.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—Arguments among some government officials over who should be the nation's war production czar were temporarily settled by President Roosevelt's assertion that there is no individual czar. The president's statement, made at a press conference today, was a direct answer to the question of who should be the czar of production. It was a direct answer to the question of who should be the czar of production. It was a direct answer to the question of who should be the czar of production.

Further, he declared, all the officials concerned with the production of war materials are supposed to get together and work out a plan. He said that he had put them in a room and told them to do so. Government sources have predicted that War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson's appointment of his vice chairman, Charles L. Wilson, as top man over aircraft production might lead to a showdown conflict between WPA and military services over control of munitions production.

In appointing Wilson, Nelson stepped into a field of conflicting and competing output over which the Army and Navy had sole authority. The president, however, interpreted Wilson's new role as chiefly that of plane production coordinator charged with increasing production of parts with that of the rest of the plane. The president, he said, would not be a czar. He would be a coordinator. He would be a coordinator. He would be a coordinator.

Reasonable Curtailment Will Make Supply Last.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 25—Ohio has enough butter "to go around with reasonable curtailment" of consumption, mostly through use of substitutes in cooking and baking, a Columbus creamery official asserted today.

Eight Marion county men reported to the U. S. Naval Training station at Great Lakes, Ill., last week to begin their basic training, according to a report today from the headquarters.

Ensign Richard W. Olewiler of the Naval air station at Jacksonville, Fla., where he is in administrative work in charge of aviation cadets, is spending a 16-day leave with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Howard L. Olewiler of 382 East Church street.

James W. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mitchell of 12 West Walnut street, has enlisted as a specialist in the Army air forces at Patterson Field, Dayton, and is awaiting assignment to duty, according to a report from the public relations office.

Second Class Fireman Carl E. Tennant is spending an eight-day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Tennant.

Prof. Robert R. Steltz of Ohio State university said freezing of 40 per cent of the nation's stored butter for the armed services and the leave-land program, increased domestic consumption and shipments abroad had reduced the amount of butter in storage.

A state agriculture department spokesman said "it can be assumed" that Ohio's creamery butter stocks, which stood at 8,831,000 pounds last Oct. 1 had decreased substantially.

by making my wartime trips in MID-WEEK

A little change in your travel habits makes a big difference in wartime transportation. By taking your trips on mid-week days—Tuesdays, Wednesdays, or Thursdays—you avoid week-end crowds. And you save a seat for a fighting man or a war worker—week-ends are often the only time he can travel at all. You'll find it wise, also, to skip holiday trips.

Under present conditions you may be inconvenienced on occasion but you can make things easier and simpler if you'll get tickets and information in advance — be prompt at terminals and rest stops to save precious minutes now that wartime speed is reduced — and take along less baggage than usual. If everybody helps there'll be no "bottlenecking!"

Africa Knows General Doolittle as "Little Man Who Is Everywhere"

GENERAL DOOLITTLE

By WES GALLAGHER

AP War Correspondent

ALLIED AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 25.—That "little man who is everywhere" is the best way to describe the hero of the Tokyo air raid, Brig. Gen. James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle, who is masterminding the American air drive against the Germans in Tunisia with the 12th air force.

In a crowded operations room on a windswept airport, the major in charge of plane construction voiced his heartfelt frustration. "I wish the general would stay put long enough for me to talk to him," the major said. "If he's here he never stands still but paces all over the place and I have to talk and run at the same time."

"If I turn my back he's off to Oran or Algiers or Casablanca or somewhere else before I can get hold of him."

General Comes In

Just at that moment a door at one end of the operations room flung open. A slight figure wearing a floppy flier's cap and a leather jacket, with only a silver star on his collar to set him apart from a dozen second lieutenants around him, strode in. He took a quick glance at the operations boards stuffed with names and types of airplanes, and went out the other door with the speed of a fox dashing for cover in the brush.

"There he goes again," moaned the major. "I've got to catch him, goodbye."

Nervous, energetic Doolittle has been the one-man gang of this air force he created in a month's secret work in London.

He keeps a Flying Fortress at his disposal 24 hours a day, the same one recently shot up by the Germans, and spends as much time in the air as on the ground.

Although his fortress is used as a passenger plane, he keeps two bombs in the bay "just in case he sees something to drop them on."

"And Jimmy's just the guy who will see it," one of his staff asserted. "The rest of us could fly for months and see nothing, but he turns up something."

Always on the Go

Doolittle leaves all office work to his staff, putting in a lightning appearance as the only general without an aid although he is entitled to one. He does everything himself, dashing hundreds of miles through the war zone as though taking a taxi cab from one headquarters to another in London or Washington.

He flew into the Oran airdrome in his Fortress minutes after his fighters and ground troops had captured the field, with a battle going on a short distance away.

Whenever confined to his office by work, he paces around like a tiger in a cage, talking as he walks.

The young fighter and bomber pilots who must be part cynics where what they call the "brass-hats" are concerned, worship him and Doolittle shows a decided preference for the company of young airmen, wandering about at every opportunity, asking questions, learning the boys by name.

"That's Jimmy all right," said one young pilot with a thick southern accent. "He comes right down here with us and asks questions and calls me by my first name. We're ready to go any place he wants to lead us anytime."

Jefferson City—That fuss overseas caught Robert James with several hundred prize-winning show chickens and he's still stuck with them.

James now spends his time keeping his fourteen varieties groomed, for he believes that when the world is normal again show chickens will be in greater demand than ever before.

A year ago he made 25 states with 600 unique chickens and geese, displaying them at poultry shows and fairs to the tune of $500 weekly in prize money. His cornish games, coochins, Australian Kewies, Crevecoeurs, Sultans and Polish are biding their time too.

"There's very few poultry shows nowadays," James says. "All the boys over the country are selling their birds for next to nothing. Mine are worth more than $5,000 right now and I wouldn't part with them."

WALDO YOUTH HURT IN TRAFFIC MISHAP

In Hospital After Motorcycle, Auto Collision.

Ernest Augustein, 17, of Walden, is in City hospital for treatment of injuries suffered last night when his motorcycle collided with an automobile in Walden.

The attending physician said today that Augustein's general condition is good. X-ray pictures were taken of head injuries and of an injury to his right leg. The physician said that although he had not studied the pictures he did not believe the injuries were serious.

According to the state report of the accident, Augustein's motorcycle collided with a car driven by Louis Klingel, 18, of Walden, when the automobile made a left turn. Augustein was thrown to the ground.

R. J. Moon of Marion, a passing motorist, brought Augustein to the hospital.

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

YOUR grocer is really a counselor on quality.
When in doubt about brands, his "extra something" can guide your choice. Ask him what soft drink he has drunk recently. 6 out of 10 grocers will tell you, "Coca-Cola".

Every sip tells the story of quality in Coca-Cola. How delicious and distinctive is its taste. How only Coca-Cola itself offers this taste. How it goes beyond mere thirst-quenching. How it gives you a welcome feeling of refreshment.
How 57 years of experience give it outstanding and unique goodness.

Your grocer knows that when you ask for Coca-Cola . . . or use its friendly abbreviation, Coke . . . you want the real thing.
The only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself.

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. These times when you cannot get it, remember: Coca, being first choice, sells out first. Ask for it each time. No matter how short the supply, the quality of Coca-Cola carries on.

SAN FRANCISCO FOOD SITUATION CRITICAL

Loss of Two Carloads of Meats Adds to Scarcity.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—The San Francisco bay area's food situation, accentuated by the approach of Thanksgiving and the traditional feasting, was aggravated today through the loss of nearly two carloads of meat from the coast.

Dr. J. C. Granger, city health director, said that of the 72,041 pounds in the shipment, mostly boned prime cuts, some 60,000 pounds were spoiled, probably as a result of the faulty icing, and had to be condemned.

"It looks like outright carelessness," said Dr. Granger. Oakland's city council called on Leon Herderson, of the office of the administration and congressional representatives from the bay, to arrange immediately for higher meat delivery quotas in keeping with the population growth.

NAMED TO MARION CO. WAR BOND COMMITTEE

Carroll Davidson To Represent Central Labor Union Group.

Announcement of the appointment of Carroll Davidson as representative on the Marion County War Bond committee was made at a meeting of the Marion Central Labor union last night at the union hall. Davidson will serve on the committee directing plans for extensive bond sales in connection with the anniversary of Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7.

Rev. Eaton, member of the Central Labor union's board of trustees for one year, was appointed chairman of the board for the coming year. Eaton is a member of Roosevelt Lodge 1281, International Association of Machinists.

The union also heard a report on housing facilities planned for Marion. Projects to provide living accommodations for 800 families at two sites on Fairground street were reviewed.

THANKSGIVING DINNERS WILL BE SUMPTUOUS

Many Will Work, But They'll Eat Well.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Americans may be willing to forego the holiday part of Thanksgiving tomorrow in order to keep production wheels humming, but they apparently are determined to celebrate at a festive table sometime during the day.

Millions will work as usual to keep the planes, tanks and ammunition rolling but when they sit down to dinner it will be to one of the most bountiful Thanksgiving feasts in the nation's history.

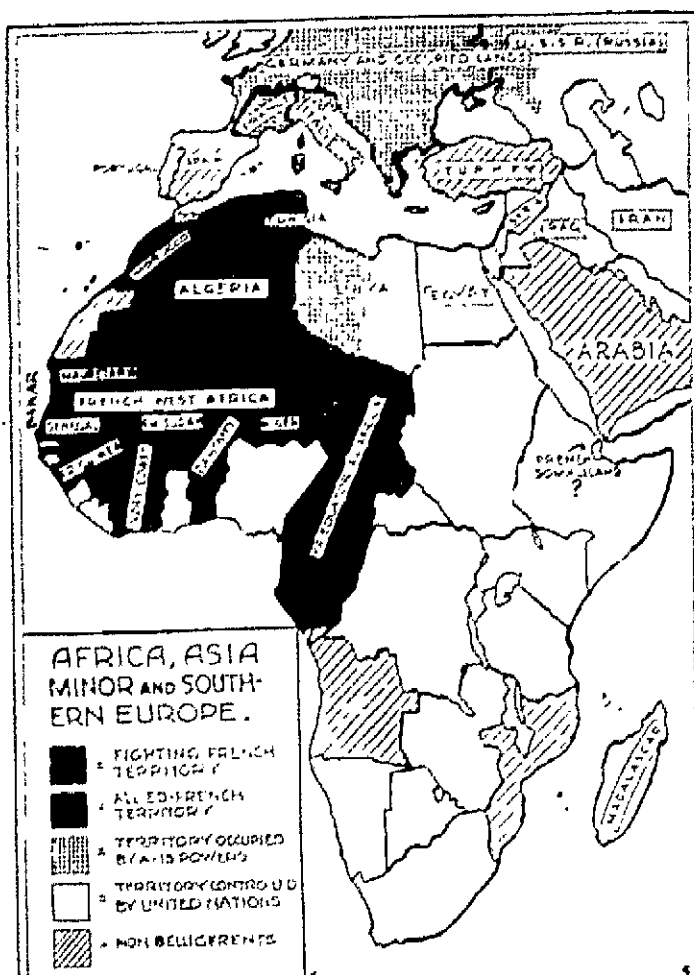

Grocery stores throughout the country have been jammed this week as consumers rushed to buy turkeys, chickens, cranberries, vegetables, pastries and all the other trimmings.

Never before, report agricultural department officials, has there been so great a demand for food. Families that never before thought of buying turkeys are in the market now for the festive bird.

Some of the heavy buying, government officials said, undoubtedly represented purchases for the future by persons fearful of shortages later.

Not all of the demands are being met. Reports indicated that the temporary shortages were greatest in the cases of meat, poultry, milk and dairy products. Eggs, some types of fresh vegetables, and some luxury items.

LINEUP IN AFRICA NOW

Here is the lineup in Africa (see key) following the announcement by Admiral Jean Barlan, now arrayed with the Allies, that the vast territory of French West Africa, with its important base at Dakar, had come under his command by its own free will. The French West African move left the Axis controlling only a comparatively small area in Libya and Tunisia, as shown on the map. The West Africa coup brought 15,000,000 people, 1,815,768 square miles and 50,000 to 60,000 troops with considerable planes and tanks under the Allied banner. Territories include Senegal, French Guinea, French Sudan, the Ivory Coast, Dahomey, Mauritania and Niger.

Cardboard and Voice on Radio in Far West Renew Ex-Marionite's Connections with Old Home Town

Back in 1930 in Los Angeles, a former Marion man found a piece of decorated cardboard advertising a Marion-made ice cream. Last week he and another former Marion man now in Salt Lake City, Utah, and in talking over old times the piece of cardboard was mentioned. This week The Star received the piece of cardboard together with an interesting letter from the finder, in which he mentions friendships of 15 years ago.

The finder is William E. Rice, now official court reporter for the sixth judicial district court at Richfield, Utah, the friend with whom he held a reunion in 1930. Mr. Condon, an editor on the Salt Lake Tribune, and the piece of cardboard notified early a "Chocolate Bubble Ice Cream."

A Marion Product.

An official of the company said yesterday the company has manufactured the flavor for more than 10 years and has a copyright on both bulk and brick make. How the piece of cardboard got to Los Angeles will remain an unexplained mystery. The official could throw no light on the traveled piece of advertising.

Here, in part is Mr. Rice's letter to The Star:

"I graduated from Marion High in 1916 and knew George Emerson Jr. and Wanda Condon when they were reporters in Marion. In 1927 I went to California and worked for the Santa Fe Railway Company at various locations in California, Arizona and New Mexico. From 1937 to 1940 I was chief clerk to the assistant superintendent of the Santa Fe at Los Angeles, our office being in the old First St. Depot which was famous in its day. One day in 1939, I believe it was, I went across the street for a cup of coffee, and in the street in front of the old Swift & Co. place on Santa Fe street just a few steps from the First Street Viaduct, over the Los Angeles river, I picked up a piece of cardboard which is enclosed herewith for you. You will

State Owes Marion Co. $4,175 in Court Cases

The state of Ohio owes Marion county $4,175 for court and transportation expenditures in the prosecution of criminals from 1935 to 1940.

This figure was on a list certified today to the finance director by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. The Associated Press reported. It is part of $752,556 the state owes various counties for those purposes.

Costs of prosecuting violators of state laws are borne by the state but counties have not been reimbursed since Martin L. Davy vetoed the 1933 appropriation for that purpose while he was governor. A system of credit checks for state-owned and county-owned accounts was arranged by the legislature last year.

Hitler Will Try To Hold What He Has Gained, Make Peace, Speaker Declares

Cleveland Foreign Editor Speaks to 300 at Lecture Sponsored by University Women, Altrusa Club.

We must remember that the new world is not an isolated phenomenon and that we as citizens of a good nation can no longer say "let the other fellow do it," Spencer Irwin, foreign news editor of The Cleveland Plain Dealer, told an audience of approximately 300 persons in a talk on "America, Pioneer of the Future," Tuesday night in Central Christian church.

The talk was one of two given by Mr. Irwin here Tuesday. In the evening he was the guest speaker when members of the Marion Association of University Women and the Marion Altrusa club met for a joint dinner and program and at noon he was guest speaker for the annual joint Thanksgiving luncheon of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

With Mrs. Irwin he was the dinner guest of the women's groups at Hotel Harding and later the members and their guests went to the church where the lecture was open to the public. His talk was followed by a spirited question hour.

During the question hour Mr. Irwin described Japan as a "tough customer" and predicted that Hitler will stop now, hold what he has and that the Axis will resist to all sorts of measures but will not be taken in again and he will dictate the peace," he declared. "Yes" was his answer to a question "will it be necessary to maintain an army of occupation in the Pacific area after the war?"

"Our good neighbor policy is paying dividends in South America," he stated in response to a query as to our accomplishments in our relations with South America and he voiced the opinion that we are playing a short-sighted game by not sending more supplies into China. "We should arm the Chinese. It is a large army and willing to fight," he stated.

"Today we are confronted with a Germany determined to dominate the world," he said. An emphatic "no" was his answer as to whether Hitler's plan will succeed. Up to 30 days ago everything indicated that his ambition might win, but in the last 30 days the tide of war has turned and the axis is on the defensive in every part of the world. He warned that because Russia is tightening a gigantic trap in the Silesian sector and that the United States and Great Britain have swept through South Africa we must not think that victory is already won. If the Japs ever succeed in their objectives, he predicted that history will reverse itself and the old world will literally close in on the new. We know, he said, the Japs are getting ready for a sea thrust in all places.

Italian Outlook

Mr. Irwin told his audience that the Italian people are not only sick of Mussolini but are sick and angry at the way he has sold out to Germany. "Italy today," he said, "is no better off than any other part of Europe." He designated our military achievements in Europe as a surprise, especially to Germany and voiced the opinion that Turkey, which has for some months past been the recipient of lend-lease, will now come in on our side "without any question."

He returned more than once to the subject of Japan and said that until we get into China and drive the Japs off the Asiatic mainland we will not have licked Japan, and predicted that we will not defeat Japan until we turn our whole attention to that country.

In speaking of China Mr. Irwin said we will have to get new conception of that country. "The China that exists today and that will come out of this war, is not heathen China we knew in the past, to whom we sent missionaries and for whom we took up a collection once a year." He described China as one of the most promising industrial countries in the world.

Recalls Days in Marion.

"My father, W. O. Rice, used to have the Marion Electric Supply & Talking Machine store on the corner of the alley across from the Opera House, and in those days I recall that he took care of the electrical work for the Stars and I remember when I was a little boy I helped him wick porcelain tubes through the joists and string electric wire through them, when King's Elbow (the Ray R. King home on Mt. Vernon avenue) was built. . . I was business manager for the High School 'Quiver' for a year or two."

Hears Old Friend.

"A few weeks ago I all of a sudden found myself listening to the voice of Waide Al Condon, broadcasting his Saturday evening program for the Salt Lake Tribune, which he tells me he has been doing for three years. I forgot to mention that for the past two years I have been with the Santa Fe at Needles, Calif., that notoriously hot spot in the desert. In August of this year I got a turkey break and was appointed

NEWCOMERS CLUB HEARS TALK BY C. OF C. HEAD

Views of Marion Presented by Cutler A. McGrew.

Cutler A. McGrew, president of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, spoke at a dinner meeting of the Newcomers club last night at the Y. M. C. A. His subject was "As One Newcomer to Other Newcomers." Mr. McGrew, who has lived in 11 different cities, told of his impressions of Marion when he came here, and compared it with other cities in which he had lived. He stressed the fact that it is not the buildings that make a city but the people living there. He read a list of names of people who were born and raised in Marion and have gone other places and made good.

Approximately 45 men attended the meeting. Dinner was followed by group singing led by Don Garver with Harold Reynolds at the piano.

Two Marion Men Held After Bucyrus Accident

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 23.—John Hopkins, 31, and Lowell Craft, 28, both of Marion, are being held pending filing of charges of Chief of Police Arthur Stuckert. Both were involved in the hit-skip accident on Washington square Saturday night in which W. B. Smith, 66, former of east of Bucyrus received painful injuries, police stated.

Hopkins, the driver of the car, admitted having struck the farmer as he crossed the street on the north side of the square, Chief Stuckert said.

The car was picked up late Saturday night upon a description furnished by witnesses and the two men were taken into custody when they appeared at police headquarters Sunday morning to report their car stolen.

Hopkins is employed at the Crawford Steel foundry in Bucyrus. He will be charged with leaving the scene of an accident. Chief Stuckert said today. What action will be taken against Craft has not been determined by officers.

CHILD LOSES LIFE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 25.—Seven-year-old Lois Albert lost her life in an attempt to warn her mother of a fire that damaged their home, firemen reported today. The child was asphyxiated and the mother, Mrs. Vera Albert, 35, was overcome by heat and smoke but revived.

The fire broke out in the building Co., at Mantowoc, Wis. A crowd of 6,000 lined the river banks to see the fleet-type submarine hit the water.

"CHOOSING UP" FOR THEIR SIDE

These 18 and 19-year-old men, shown in the New York City recruiting office, aren't going to wait. They're choosing an unlucky number for the Axis right now, selecting the one of the 13 branches of Army service they prefer after discussing the opportunities of each with the recruiting service men of 18 and 19 all over the country are doing the same thing.

AFRICA HOLIDAY

the aerial attack on an axis troop train near Gabes, little more than 100 miles from the Libyan border, suggested that the Germans were throwing heavy reinforcements into southern Tunisia and probably the key port of Tripoli too.

If true, it may be difficult to separate the humbled African corps withdrawing westward in Libya and the swiftly gathered forces in Tunisia.

The British Eighth Army approaching El Aghela from Agadaba in Libya should know in a very few days whether Field Marshal Erwin Rommel plans to make a stand in the narrow bottleneck at El Aghela or continue his flight toward Tripoli.

French patrols in southern Tunisia continued scouting activity against an apparently increased infiltration of Germans there.

American parachute troops guarding an airfield in the south ensnared an axis column of mechanized troops and took a number of prisoners. A spokesman at allied headquarters in Africa said.

Dispatchers from African headquarters said the Germans still were entrenched in an area around Birzete and Tunis, controlling an area extending some 25 to 30 miles outside the two cities.

The Vichy radio reported that the German had landed reinforcements at both Gabes and Sfax and it was expected that the axis would fight bitterly to hold the coastal road connecting their forces in the Birzete-Tunis area with Tripoli. Sfax is about 65 miles north of Gabes on the coastal road.

Radio Morocco reported that the allied-occupied port of Bone on the Algerian coast was bombed last night by axis raiders despite a heavy barrage of anti-aircraft fire. Bone is only a few miles from the Tunisian border.

Thursday night the U. S. Rubber Co. will sponsor its first all-plant social affair, a party at the Marion County Club Personnel of the Hunkin-Corbin Construction Co., Holabird & Root and the War Department will be invited guests.

Bert Wendell, formerly with Hal Kremo's dance band, and his orchestra will furnish music.

Berlin Says Allies Set Back in Tunisia

By The Associated Press

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Nov. 25.—The Berlin radio broadcast a report today that the British first army "has suffered a severe setback in its attempt to gain ground in the Tunisian-Algerian frontier area."

It asserted that in difficult, mountainous ground, fairly strong British tank spearheads, closely followed by several motorized columns, were caught in an ambush prepared by German and Italian tank troops.

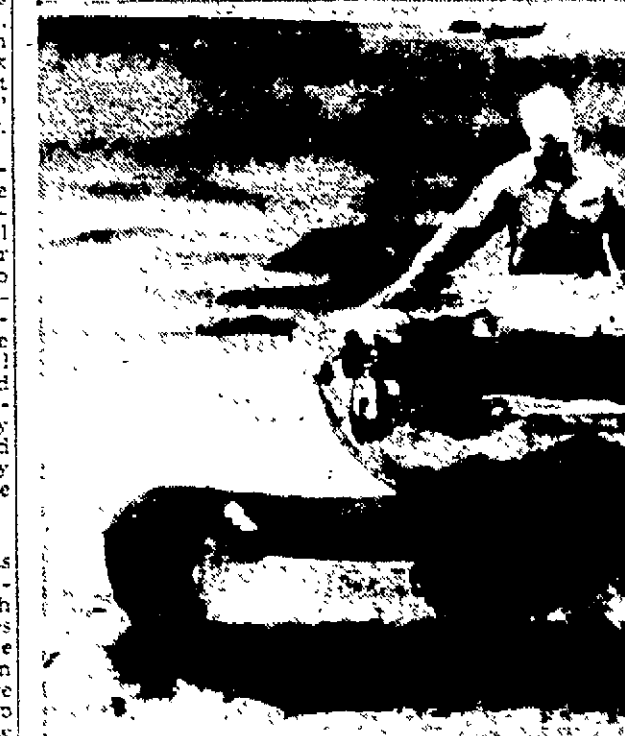

German sources, it said, had blown up two hairpin bends on the coastal road, cutting off the way of retreat for the most advanced British units.

British resistance collapsed in a crossfire of German infantry and anti-tank guns, it was said, and all armored cars and several armored troop carriers were reported destroyed.

The Berlin radio reported today that a British cruiser and submarine had been sunk, a destroyer bombed and seven ships severely damaged by axis air and naval forces in North African waters.

(These claims were unconfirmed today from allied sources.) The broadcast reported also that German bombers had destroyed several American planes on the airport at Bone, Algeria, and had knocked out 16 of 20 locomotives along the Algiers coastal railway.

No Celebration This Year Over Pact Against Red

This column, dedicated to daily feature by DeWitt, Jr., was taken from the New York Times, Nov. 25, 1932.

Today is the sixth anniversary of the anti-communist pact of resurgence of the Red army's winter offensive east over any celebrating the pact members have had in mind.

A year ago today as the pact was broadened to the festive ceremony in Berlin, German foreign minister, Dr. Von Ribbentrop, proclaimed proudly that following the pact the events in the east "commenced without a doubt had a blow from which it never recovered."

Among the "signatories" was the fact that the German army was literally hammered, the gates of Moscow.

Germany and Japan were original signers, setting the example on Nov. 25, 1932.

Italy added her name later. Menchoukov and H. joined in February, 1933. In one fell swoop, as the German arms in the east at high tide, the member more than doubled on the anniversary and the pact renewed for five years. The mark, Finland, Croatia, Rumania, Slovakia and Japan were added.

Military developments in a huge North Africa, year have shown the strength of the anti-communist front. Exactly where it was, say, ago today, in the hands of many and Spain, Italy, by losses in Egypt and Libya, a vulnerable position as the whole to join forces, because of North Africa, come over more clearly to the link of the big three powers.

It may well be that the communist front, non-military though it technically is, is the peak of its strength. Moscow's darkest hour is past winter.

Project Near Marion O Post-War Road Progr.

Route 42 from the Marion county line through Mansfield, one of the major improvements in a huge "after the war" construction program being considered by state highway department officials, subject to roads administration approval. Associated Press dispatch from Columbus stated today. Department officials estimated that it would need $700,000 to surveys and estimated the program, estimated to cost several million dollars, for submission to the Roads Administration. Cost surveys and detailed plans will be shared equally by the state and federal government, according to plans.

Births in Sweden High
STOCKHOLM — Births, through-

Other cars involved were driven

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Child's Development

THE "grid technique" is the name used by pediatricians for following the development of the child from infancy up to 16 or 15 years. It is simply a graphic method of putting down on a card, fully ruled grid the summary of the child's growth along various important lines.

If you consider height as one factor, which is related to a certain number of pounds in showing satisfactory development, and increase in weight as another factor of the same kind, with the measurements of the neck, shoulders, hips and legs as other factors, and add all these together, you will get a very satisfactory summary of the child's physical status.

This summary is put down as a dot or pencil mark on a certain point on your grid.

From infancy to the age of 16, let us say, the physical status should change in a progressive, steady and uninterrupted manner—that is, the child is normal.

Even the most normal child, however, is expected to have some digestive upsets, intestinal infections, measles, whooping cough and so forth, do not change the orderly progress of the child, if observed at regular periods.

But it is noticeable on looking at many of these charts that when there is an interrupted or irregular process of development it is a pretty good indication that something is the matter with the child. It may be hidden tuberculosis. A diabetic child, which naturally jumps from one extreme to the other of nutritional stability, shows a very irregular chart. So do children with allergy.

In short, it may be said that the best indication of a child's general health is that there should be a regular and orderly development of height, weight and bodily proportions and the best indication of the fact that the child has something the matter with it is an interrupted or irregular development.

We see this commonly illustrated in the case of twins. Most twins have the same heredity and the same exposure to infectious diseases. They also receive the same nutrition. Most twins, therefore, develop at the same rate and are likely to show the same fluctuations in their development.

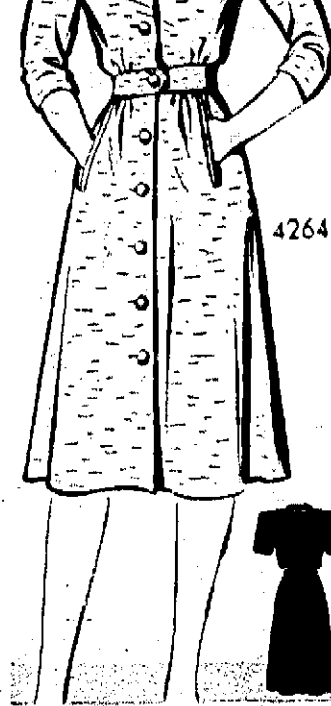

Occasionally we see a pair of twins in which one has had some disturbance not shared by the other and the difference between their height, weight and bodily proportions is striking.

Theoretically, all children should develop at exactly the same rate on the grid technique. But in a given school room it has been found that the children will vary between 50 and 100—a 100 point spread.

About 30 per cent of all children are behind their age as measured by bodily development on the grid technique. In any school where such records are made, the child that needs extra nutrition or medical care is easily spotted.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"I DON'T NEED to know anything about him," George declared, and I wondered if I only imagined that there was confusion in his voice, and a trace of sulking.

"Any real man would know he was a blunderer or worse," he said, and I was greatly surprised and disappointed to see Mary trying so hard to pretend she was enjoying his company.

"There could be only two reasons for her acquaintance with him in a public place like that," he went on didactically. "Either she is infatuated with him, or she is unhappy with Noel that she is snatching at any chance to forget her color. I believe that is the true answer, for I am sure I detected her blushing of Redfield."

"Suppose," I should tell you, George, I said slowly, "that neither of your premises is correct."

"What do you mean?" he asked, looking at me keenly.

"I can't tell you much about it now," I said, "but I can assure you of two things. First, Mary is going out with him in order to learn certain facts which may be of use to her. Second, she is not unhappy with Noel. He is devoted to her and she to him. The only flaw in their happiness is Noel's jealousy of her."

I may have imagined there was a flicker of disappointment in his eyes when I spoke of Mary's devotion to Noel, and I was alarmed. For I saw dangerous sparks ahead if Georges came back into Mary's life.

At the end of that romantic summer, when Mary came back to Noel and Georges and Olina told us of their betrothal, I believed there were no "mental reservations" in their announced nuptials, and time had proved Noel's and Mary's mutual devotion.

But the betrothal of Olina and Georges had been broken off before her tragic exile and return to this country, and for a long while after that she had made both Mary's life and Noel's miserable by her predatory attitude toward Philip Veritren's son.

The great impresario himself had settled that question after his own marriage to Olina's mother, and in the hectic time that followed I began to wonder whether the girl ever had cared for Noel, or had tried to take him from Mary's life in retaliation for what she considered Mary's theft of Georges' affections.

I now recalled the tender, exultant note in Olina's voice, and the gladness in her face when I told her I believed Georges was in America and had sent her the fan letter and the drawing of The Larches.

Olina loved Georges, I was sure of that. But that Georges loved her in return I much doubted, and I began to feel increasingly uneasy as he spoke of Noel's jealousy.

"To do Noel justice," he can't help that," he said. "If I had married Mary, I would have loved her and shut her away from all admiring eyes save mine."

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Nov. 25

A PARTICULARLY active and enterprising day, in which much pleasant planning and promoting is likely to be expended in the pursuit of enjoyment rather than in workaday matters, is noted in the stellar situation.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much initiative and enterprise, in which new and bold projects are likely to get off to a good start and aggressively, although backed up by a degree of sound consideration and well-directed application. In whatever field this attack is made it should be well organized and safeguarded against rash "spurts," impetuous and nervous explosions, or over-enthusiasms or ardors.

A child born on this day should be gifted with skill, initiative and enterprise backed up by some sound principles, and a tendency to reckless, stubbornness, self-will and squandering of nervous energy may nullify strenuous efforts.

For Friday, Nov. 27

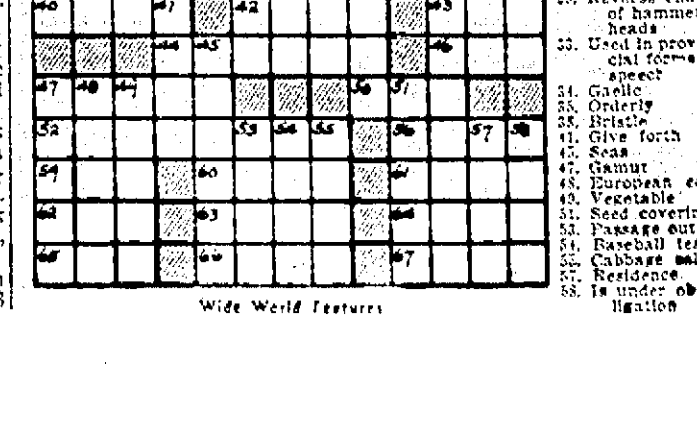

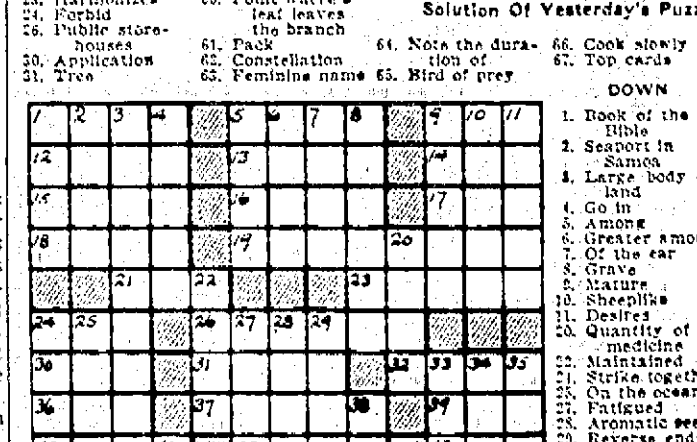

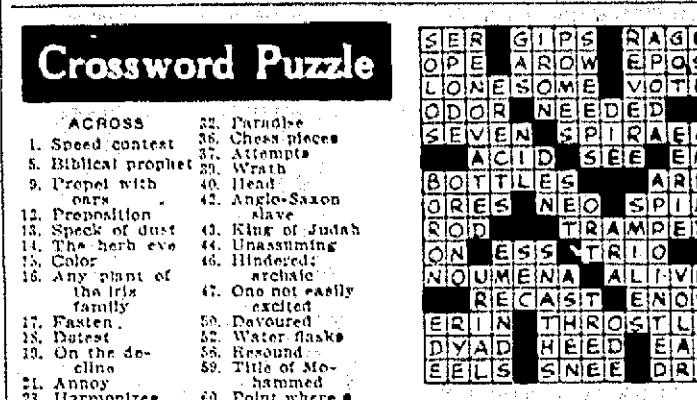

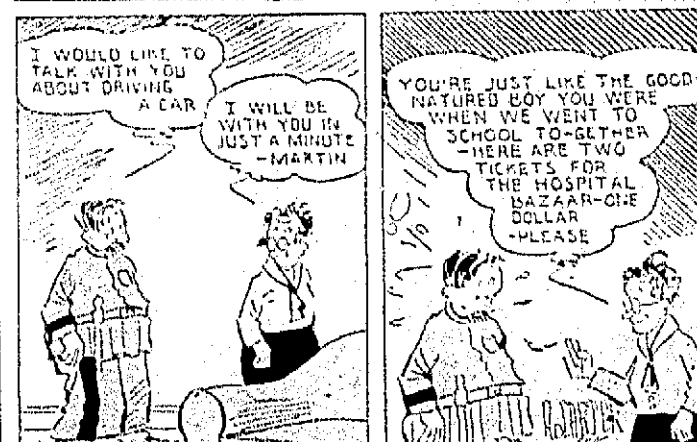

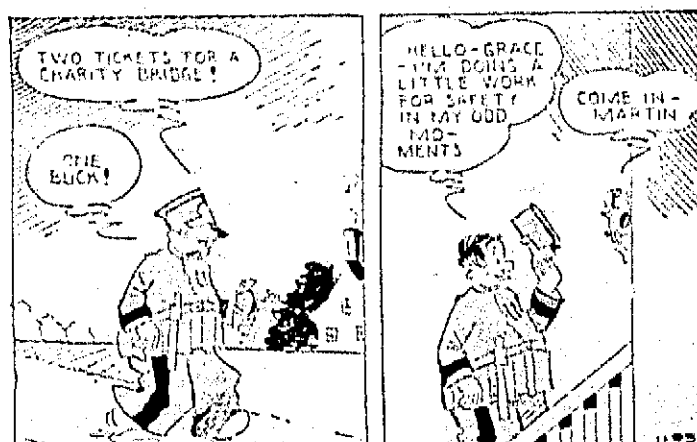

A DAY of truly "devastating" events, in its varied implications, is indicated by a most intriguing array of planetary configurations, at once benign and ominous.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves hurtled into a year of circumstances—breath-taking, dramatic and of high romantic adventure, in which joy, festivity, celebrations, brilliant courtships and weddings, sudden upheavals and adventures, are paralleled by quite as devastating sorrows, uprootings, estrangements and unprecedented visitations.

A child born on this day may be expected to have a spectacular career. Brilliant, ingenious, audacious, unpredictable, with much warmth and color of heart and mentality, it may shine as a hero.
